The word "pride" is often given a negative connotation — an overly-high opinion of oneself; unreasonable conceit. Pride is even considered to be a sin. However, pride, when applied constructively, can be the basis for striving for certain goals or accomplishing ambitions.

Students validly exhibited Warrior Pride in all aspects of the school. Fans expressed their pride to inspire the Girl's Volleyball team capture the A.C.A.C. tournament, and they spurred the Boy's Basketball team to the championship game of their A.C.A.C. tournament. Enthusiastic supporters also inspired the Boy's Volleyball team to the State Championship game.

Students also displayed their pride by participating in various activities. The Musical, Homecoming, choir, band, and other various events throughout the year served as instruments for students to express their Warrior Pride — a satisfaction in one's own achievements.

Beginnings bring changes

The beginning of the 1980's opened full of altercation and controversy influencing the future of Americans. A contentious atmosphere predominated the introduction of the new decade as typified in 50 U.S. citizens being held hostage in Iran to the International Harvester Company striking for over five months. Should women register for the draft? Should American athletes attend the summer Olympic games in Moscow, even if Russia refused to pull her armed forces out of Afghanistan? Should employees be forced to work overtime? These questions prevailed in the minds of the students of 1980.

The opening of the decade brought several changes. An ensuing Presidential election would revolutionize the outlook in various aspects concerning the nation. Inflation and high gasoline prices changed everyday habits of most Americans. Modifications at Woodlan included a newly painted gym and brightly painted classrooms, new teachers, new coaches, and a new "oasis" drinking fountain donated by the class of 1979.

Although controversy and change dominated the beginning of the 80's, a certain sense of challenge presented itself to the students of the new decade — a challenge to accept change and make changes for a better and brighter tomorrow.

The Pride of '80

ACTIVITIES

Activities within a school system encourage students to get involved with the school and community. The Musical, Band, Choir, the Prom, etc. provided the students with the opportunity to experience new friendships with other students and faculty members while expressing their various talents. Students worked very hard to present these activities and programs with great Warrior Pride.

Class of "80" does it again!

This year's Homecoming theme, "Tomahawk the Hawks," proved to be successful on the Woodlan Warrior football field. The mighty Warrior football team out maneuvered the Hawks during the first and second quarters, ending with a halftime score of 14-0.

Halftime activities included such highlights as the crowning of Homecoming Queen, Tracey Myers, unique class floats and a brilliant Woodlan High School Marching Band. The floats rounded the track gaining approval from the crowd. The Sophomore float won first prize. Halftime ended with a grand performance of the band constructing formations and playing lively music.

The third and fourth quarters for the Warrior team proved again successful. The Hawks scored once while the Warriors fought back and scored again. The homecoming game ended in a 21-7 Warrior victory.

A week before the football game the students, along with faculty members, joined in with the participation of Spirit Week. Days such as Inside Out Day, Stuffed Animal Day, Halloween Day, Hat, Socks and Shades Day and ending the week with a traditional Dress Up Day, encouraged the student body to put forth a 50 percent effort towards supporting the true meaning of "Spirit Week." The Senior Class won Spirit Week for the fourth consecutive year in a row, an accomplishment achieved by no other class in the history of Woodlan. A superb job Seniors!

A pep session added to the excitement with the student body cheering along the football team. Two tremendous pep session activities included a skit acted out by the Student Council and the finale of Mr. Max Amstutz "kissing a pig."

All who participated in Homecoming experienced a certain sense of excitement throughout this special time of the year called Homecoming.

Seniors experience "political scene"

Everything from cobras to green string beans to wambubug-gies appeared at the annual political Mock-Election. Five political parties, organized from all five U.S. Government classes, functioned under the supervision of Mr. John J. Briegel. The five parties adopted the following names; Tea Party, Cars Party, Rush Party, Super Party and Cobra Party. Each party used its own symbol and description to distinguish their party from another. Each party devoted much preparation and preparation in order to obtain the "student vote."

All Presidential, Vice Presidential and Senatorial candidates nominated fulfilled the obligation of presenting a campaign speech in front of the whole student body. Presidential and Vice Presidential speeches lasted six minutes while the Senatorial candidates addressed a four minute speech. All class Representative candidates attended different classes and spoke out on planks advocated by their parties.

Preparation began one week before the actual election day. Posters, pranks and propaganda were all used to "lure" the "student vote" one way or another.

After the Mock-Election ended, some candidates harbored hard feelings. On the other hand many candidates enjoyed the honor of being elected to the prospective office.

Assemblies coincide with student pep

To break up the scholastic routine, the Student Council sponsored several assemblies throughout the year. In October, D'Paul amazed the students with feats of ESP and magic. Just before Christmas vacation, the Twosome Transfer entertained the school body with futuristic skits. January brought pantomimists, Micah and Laura, who astounded the audience with acts of illusion of solid walls and stairways. At the final assembly in March, John Schurman satirized and commented on society through song.

During the football and basketball seasons, pep sessions provided the student body with an opportunity to cheer the teams onto victory prior to the big games. Energetic team Cheerleaders pitted classes against each other as to which class could yell the loudest. The results were never the same.

Saints lead spirit chants Flyers scrimmaged to victory

The Senior Saints filled the gym with songs of accolades from above. The Jammin' Juniors entered the gym with the thought of overpowering the "One" possessing the almighty power from the heavens beyond. Fulfilling the seniors expectations, the Saints victoriously defeated the Jammin' Juniors.

The second game featured the Freshmen Flyers with a vanquished defeat against the Samori Sophomores. The Flyers controlled the evening with their dominating players hitting the boards, both offensively and defensively.

The third and final game indicated a weakening point for the Saints, as the Flyers subdued the higher supremacy. Both teams were worn out from the previous games; age and endurance took its toll, and the young prevailed.

Birdie brings back 50's era

The drama department presented Bye Bye Birdie on April 24, 25, 26, and 27th. Cramming practice into six short weeks, the cast expressed a feeling of closeness, resulting in an outstanding dramatic performance.

Under the direction of Louise Jones and Joan Phillips, the production was held in the bandroom rather than the gymnasium, making it possible to stage the entire production in a small area with the use of a revolving stage.

Some familiar faces in the crowd were Ken Brown (Conrad), Sheryl Engle (Rosie), Tim Amstutz (Albert), Rene Hege (Mrs. Peterson), Kyle Farmer (Hugo), Jon Koeneman (Mr. MacAfee), Kristi Miller (Mrs. MacAfee), and Steve Swing (Randolph).

Audiences gave Birdie a standing ovation every night in a "thumbs up" response.

Moments are precious/few

Decorated with red and white flowers to blend with the existing decor, the Marriott Three Rivers Ballroom provided the background for the junior/senior prom on May 3.

Dinner consisted of Cordon Bleu as the main course accented with fresh fruit cup, green beans almon-dine and sherbert for dessert.

After dinner and the welcome from Junior Class President Lori Brueggeman, the band, "Gandalf," "rocked the room" with fast and slow numbers. The good beat was evident in spite of the loudness as the dancers crowded the dance floor for most of the evening.

Intermission entertained the guests with the crowning of the kind and queen and her attendants. Seniors received the "gag" awards for the year.

Outstanding achievers get recognition

On May 8th students and faculty gathered in the gym for Honor Day/Night. Various awards were given for outstanding achievements accomplished throughout the year.

Perfect attendance, Honor roll, and all "a's" were some of the academic awards given.

Most valuable player and letters were some of the athletic awards presented.

Junior Mike Faith was voted Most Valuable Runner by Mr. Steve Holt and cross country team members.

Four years of work; one day of glory

May 20, 1980, marked the end of four years of high school for 128 graduating seniors. At 7:30 the ceremony promptly began with the class of 1980 marching down the aisle to the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance," amid an array of popping flashbulbs.

Following the invocation given by Kathie Wilder, Reverend Daniel Kacer delivered the Baccalaureate Address. Salutatorian, Denise Gerig, elaborated on the theme of the commencement in her speech, "When all but the memories are left behind, the future still remains." After the mixed choir sang its rendition of "Flying Free," Reverend Joe

Wick delivered his speech, "If there be a need."

Mr. Bush presented the class as Mr. Gerig handed out the diplomas to each graduating senior. The class of 1980 then turned their tassels in declaration of graduation from Woodlan.

After Valedictorian, Chris Gerardot, gave his speech, the graduated class of 1980 proceeded to converge back down the aisle with memories of four years of high school behind them. Ahead of them; the brightness of the future.

The class chose the red rose; class flower, and blue, white, and forest green; class colors.

Choirs harmonize to new leadership

Directed by Mrs. Joan Phillips the Mixed Chorus and Girls Glee performed throughout the year. From a performance of the cantata "A Night to Remember" at Christmas to a spring concert, the Mixed Chorus found many audiences. The Girls Glee accepted an invitation to sing at a choir "sing-fest" at the Chamber of Commerce in Ft. Wayne.

These two choirs became a great success and provided entertainment for many.

The 16 member choir, under the direction of Mrs. Joan Phillips, began its trek toward perfection in movement and vocal togetherness late in September.

Learning choreography and tight harmony, the 16 member Swing Choir practiced dance routines and a wide variety of music at 7:30 a.m. all during the year.

Both groups performed before various community groups providing them with "in performance" opportunities.

ATHLETICS

Many students expressed their Warrior Pride by participating in the various sports programs. Athletes, Coaches, Managers, Cheerleaders, and Fans alike possessed a certain amount or noble self-esteem and enthusiasm significant of the name "Warriors."

Coach Norma Gilbert and her Warrior squad had an outstanding season conquering all who challenged them. The team consisted of six seniors (all of whom started) and six underclassmen.

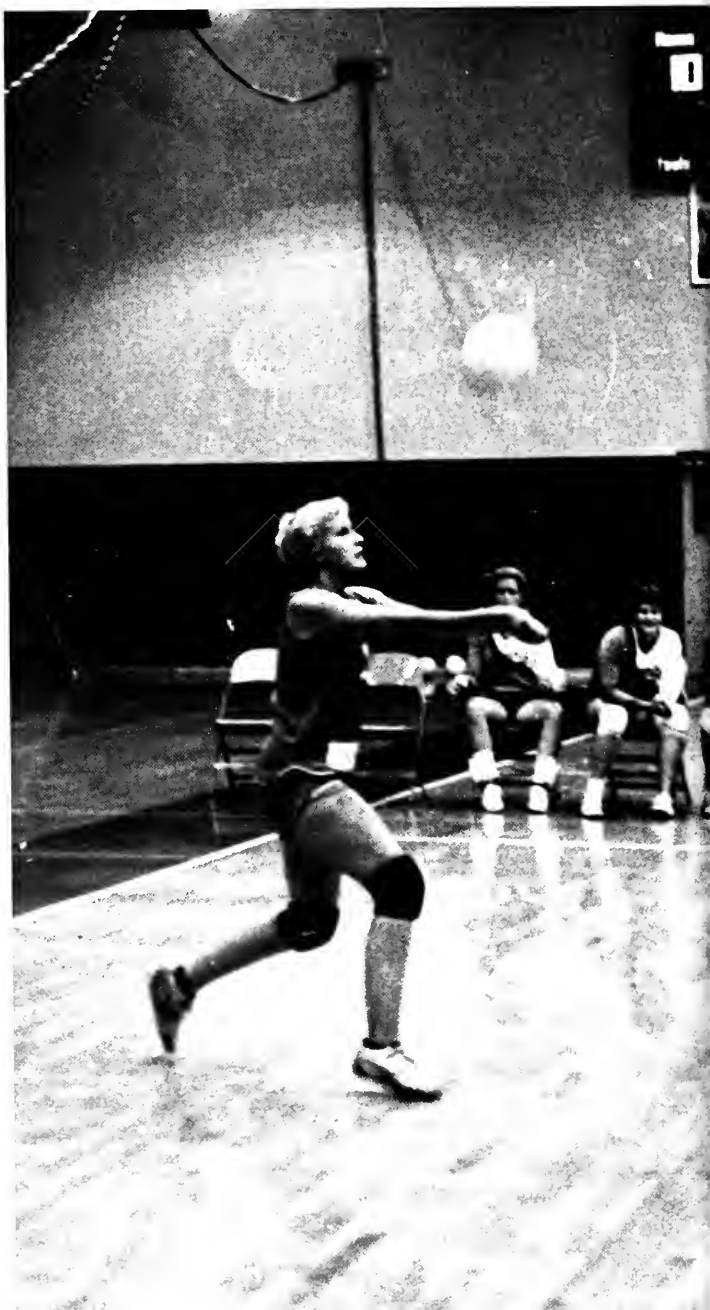

The girls achieved the A.C.A.C. Championship for the second year in a row by beating Norwell in a close match. The Warrior team used the home floor to their advantage along with many other skills to defeat the Knights. When Sectionals came the Warrior team drew Fort Wayne Snider. They defeated the Panthers and went on to the semi-final round and played powerhouse Bishop Dwenger and finally suffered defeat.

At the end of the season three players from Woodlan obtained the privilege of being named All-Conference. Congratulations Wendy, Kathie and Natalie.

Coach Martin gives some important points to his Warrior squad.

Teamwork surpasses hardships

At the beginning of the season, the Boy's Volleyball team experinced various difficulties.

For example, in the early going the Warriors encountered defeat due to the 5-1 offense. Returing to a 4-2 offense, which they used the year before, the table turned in favor of the boys, crushing opponent after opponent.

Coach Gay Martin built his unsurpassed team on six seniors and four underclassmen, including five returning lettermen.

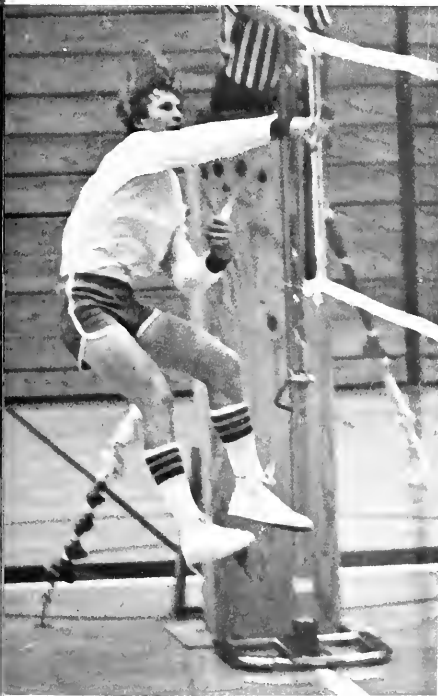

Along with their outstanding skills the team gained a special privilege of wearing new uniforms, bought by the Athletic Department. These new outfits gave a certain "spirit" in the minds of the players.

Near the end of the season the Warriors ventured to Ball State University in hopes of capturing the State Tournament Title. Through squinty eyes and monstrous yawns the boys managed to defeat all challengers opposing them. The Warriors lost a hard fought game to the Harding Hawks, obtaining the runner-up trophy.

At the end of the season Joe Miller and Rodney Strautman were named to the All-Conference team, with Conn Hermann receiving Honorable Mention.

This has been the best year for the boys since Volleyball was first organized. Coach Martin has high hopes for yet a better squad next year.

Cross country — see America

"The mode by which the inevitable comes to pass is effort."

Oliver Wendall Holmes

Effort, a key word in cross country running vital because of the long runs, steep hills and winding curves. Cross country runners worked hard and a goal for many was reaching the 1000 mile club member status. New to the group, Trina Chapman excelled at becoming the first girl runner at school. When asked at the beginning of the season who she would rather run with — guys or by herself Trina replied, "With the guys!" Thus demonstrating the spirit and fight all cross country runners seem to thrive on.

Senior Rick Huber executes precision timing on a warm-up lap around the track.

Varsity reaches their goal

Coach Leland Etzler and Assistant Coaches Ed Delong, Bill Bollier and Dean Lehrman set out to meet the challenge — have another winning season. With only two returning lettermen — Seniors Jason Yoder and Mike Kacer — Etzler had a green team to work with. A 6-4 record indicates the team met the goal.

With a lead of 612 yards in rushing, Jason Yoder also led the scoring — 42 points in 7 TD's. With Yoder's efforts plus those of Senior Mark O'Keefe and Junior Lawrence Gingerich, the team totalled 1025 yards for the season.

Mike Kacer, lead receiver, caught 11 passes and scored 3 TD's. Senior Ed Ludwig followed with 8 catches and one TD.

Mark O'Keefe led a strong defense with 54 tackles, followed closely by Chris Gerardot and Todd Helmke with 52 and 51 tackles respectively.

Injuries played a major part of the season with the loss of Jason Yoder and Juniors Steve Malfait, Todd Davis, and Brent Wells.

Reserve and Freshmen gain experience

"Hit the tires!"
 "Get those meathooks back!"
 "Freshmen, go with Coach Lehrman!"

Young Warriors heard orders such as these blaring from Coach Leland Etzler; it was a new experience for some 30 freshmen who had never before heard him speak.

The Reserves finished-up their year with a 3-4-1 record which included a 30-0 rout over Churubusco. The team showed a lot of potential and with hard work steadily improved. A lot of the players experienced different positions gaining knowledge for Varsity. Coach DeLong stated, "It was a rewarding year. The team made up for lack of size with enthusiasm."

The Freshmen, with their rookie coach, Dean Lehrman, had a dominating 6-2 record, losing only to East Noble and Carroll.

The Reserve offense charges onward for needed yardage.

Randy Fry limbers up while preparing for a reserve game.

Rebuilding for future

"I am happy with our season, but I'm not satisfied as of yet," commented first year head basketball coach, Gay Martin. "We set our goals higher than usual, and we went after them."

One goal — to win the ACAC tournament almost became a reality. The warriors lost a hard fought fight as Norwell roused them in the finals.

Six seniors, Todd Helmke, Conn Hermann, Ed Ludwig, Joe Miller, Rodney Strautman, and

Jason Yoder represented their talents by displaying leadership and experience that strengthened through the past four years.

Coach Gay Martin further explained, "We did a lot of rebuilding for the future teams ahead of us. This year we had one returning letterman; next year we will have six returning letter-winners to lead us to a winning season."

Senior Joe Miller executes a fantastic job by guarding Brian Miles in the Harding game.

New talents exist in junior high ranks

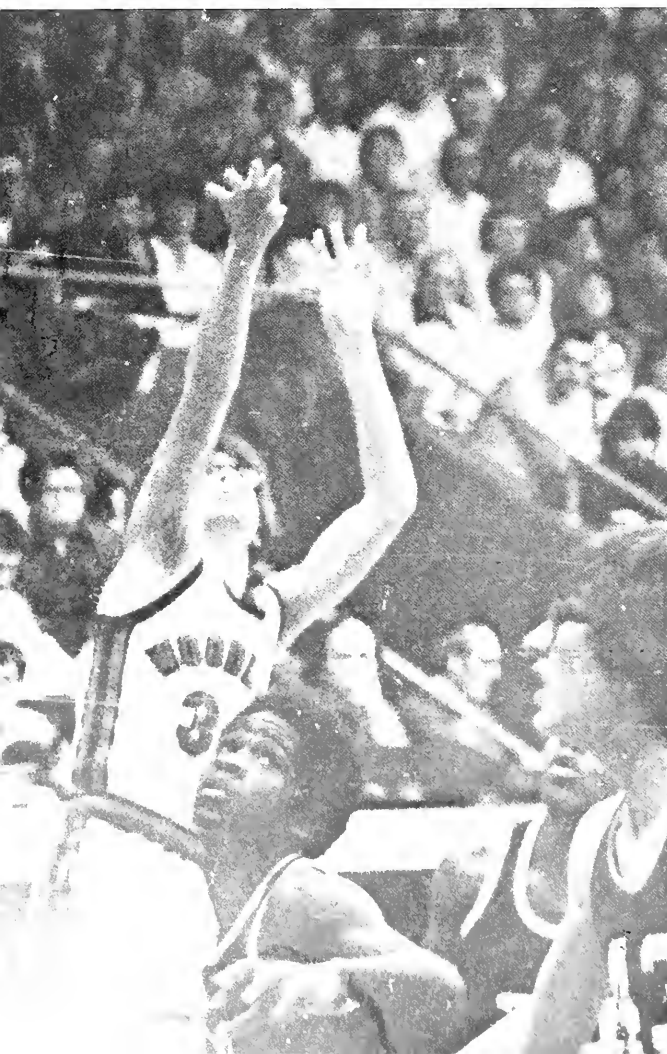

Molding the talents of today into the future Warriors of the years to come is a task held by reserve coach Bill Bollier and freshman coaches Charles Hissong and Roger Strautman.

Ending the 1979-80 season with a 7-13 record the mighty J.V. were led by Todd Wiedemann and Mark Anderson, the leading scorers.

Good attitudes and the ability to play hard both in practice and games were assets to the team.

Jeannette Platter boldly transacts a jump ball to open the Heritage game.

Jr. High teams perfect skills

The Jr. High Girl's went through their second year of building the Basketball program. The girls skillfully structured a winning season ending with a 2-12 record.

The eighth grade boys finalized with a 7-14 record. The seventh grade finished their season with a 6-7 record. The 8th grade coach Steve Holt and 7th grade coach Max Amstutz molded the talents of today into future prospects.

Kathy Geoglein scans the court in search of a teammate that has an open path to the basket.

Season ends, but talent never ceases.

The Lady Warriors ended their season with a 4-11 record. Although their record didn't show it, they had a rough, frustrating season.

Wendy Hockemeyer, Becky Miller, Jill Thiele, and Kathie Wilder, the leading four seniors, inspired the team throughout the season. Two seniors acquired the honor of being selected to the All-Conference team. Wendy Hockemeyer, elected for the first year, accompanied Kathie Wilder chosen to the team for the second year in a row.

Coach Tom Adams resigned as head varsity coach, serving for the last four years for the girl's squad. As a coach he started the Girl's Basketball Program, building the team from a group of novices to a highly skilled, talented group of athletes.

Grapplers grasp decided wins

"I am very pleased with the season," commented head wrestling coach Dennis Miesle. "Although we didn't achieve all of our goals, we accomplished a lot."

Three seniors contributed leadership and experience to the team. Chris Gerardot, Mark O'Keefe and Stu Voirol's endurance influenced the team's attitude throughout the year. Chris Gerardot led the team in pins.

The underclassmen supported the team more than ever this year. As one Warrior Grappler pointed out, "We had a very young team this season, and we should be good in the next few years. I hope we can deliver what is expected of us."

Senior Stu Voirol struggles to overpower a formidable adversary.

Senior Chris Gerardot attempts to "take down" his opponent.

Gymnasts return for progressive year

Coaches Vivian Soughan and Pam Moore had a rather small squad to work with this year. There were five members to the optional level and four members involved in the intermediate.

Once again the underclassmen supported the team while the older members held the squad together. There was only one active senior member, Monica Zelt.

All of the members look forward to a good season next year — losing only one member and retaining eight returning letterwinners.

Becky Brintingham leaps into the air upon the horse as she executes her expertise on the vault.

Lisa Szajna fulfills her task as she masters her routine on the uneven bars.

After three years of dedicated running, both on the track team and during the summer months, Senior Jill Thiele breaks the school 1600 meter run, crossing the finish line in 5:24.

Girls run to success

The small girls' track team established a final record of 8-6 and ended 3rd in the ACAC conference.

Jill Thiele broke the 1600 record with 5:16.1 in the regional meet. The 400 relay team of Doreen Huber, Tracey Myers, Vicki Doty, and Kellie Weobbeking, set a :52 record.

Holding their own, the freshmen showed great future promise.

Skimming the high jump bar, Senior Kathie Wilder puts in many long hours of practice in an attempt to break her own record.

Having successfully evaded "the dogs" during another grueling practice, Junior Doreen Huber takes a "cool down" lap before heading for the locker room.

Team sets new records

The small but mighty boys' track team set records and created stiff competition for their opponents.

Ending the year with a 4th place standing in the conference, the team had the satisfaction of knowing that strength was theirs.

Mike Kacer excelled throughout the season and represented the team in the regional meet in which he placed 5th. Conn Hermann broke the ACAC and school record for the pole vault with a 14'1" leap.

Drawing upon the reserve burst of energy which characterizes runners, Senior Mike Kacer determinedly charges forward to cross the finish line in first place.

Ignoring the competition close on his heels, Junior Todd Davis maintains his momentum and sprints to victory in a meet with Wayne Trace.

As one of those people who like to be airborne, Senior Conn Hermann vaults to a record height of 14'1", breaking another school record.

Barry Ehle shows how easy it is to clobber the baseball as he hits a line drive toward first base.

Coach Dean Lehrman, Mark James, Todd McNamara discuss pre-game tactics at the mound prior to game time.

Pitching the ball toward home, Todd McNamara tries for a no-hit game.

Batters play full season

"Play ball!" Even though the major leagues were plagued with a possible strike, the school's team played a full season.

At the beginning of the season, the team got out their equipment and "dusted it off." They closed the season with a 4-4 in the conference and 6-15 for the overall season.

Rodney Strautman and Todd Heckley were the homerun hitters for the varsity and reserve teams.

Team tees-off another season

The 13 man golf team began the season with a win over South Adams and Adams Central.

Since it was a cool, wet spring, weather conditions sometimes interferred with the matches, forcing cancelled meets. In spite of these conditions, the team still achieved many wins over teams like Norwell, Heritage, Southern Wells, and Eastside.

Derek Shuman and Mike Mull were two of the medalists on the season's circuit.

On May 19, the golfers ended the season, finishing 12th in the 19 team Fort Wayne Sectional. Derek Shuman closed the season low with an 82.

Trying for a "hole-in-one" Mike Mull drives the ball 300 yards down the fairway.

Deep in concentration, Doug Bowers focuses on the proper approach for dropping the ball in the cup.

Prior to match time, Coach Bill Mull gives the team a pep-talk and reviews their winning strategy.

Go Warriors!

The 1980 cheerleaders participated in extra events beyond cheering at games. The Varsity Basketball cheerleaders competed in two contests. The 4-H Fair in Elkhart found the Warriors taking 7th place out of 24 squads competing. The second event, held in Glenbrook Mall, found the squad competing against various area schools.

Raising money to attend the summer camps kept the Varsity Football and Basketball cheerleaders active in a number of money raising events. Selling waste baskets and eggs and working in concession stands at games helped provide the money needed to attend the camps where they learn new cheers and techniques.

The cheerleaders felt it was a satisfying year.

ORGANIZATIONS

Many students proved their "Warrior Pride" by participating and getting involved in the various organizations. Sponsored by the faculty, these clubs met every other Monday during the school year. Some clubs continued to congregate throughout the summer by participating in Woodburn Days or just getting together to have fun.

FHA moves on!

The Future Homemakers of America sought to be one of the biggest clubs, not only in number but also in activity. The F.H.A. participated in the usually scheduled events such as "Daddy Date Night", "Sadie Hawkins" dance, and the "Rose Banquet."

The club also represented itself at a state F.H.A. speech contest, sending four members, with each winning honors. This proved the club's respect of tradition and also its pursuit of progress.

FFA remains #1

The Future Farmers of America remained not only the best in the district and the state, but also in the nation.

This became evident in the many awards received. The chapter sent members to crops and soil judging contests as well as to speech contests.

For many of the members of the chapter, farming became a way of life; however, others had the interest in the scientific aspect. Together, a winning combination appeared.

Leadership seen

Members of the Student Council and National Honor Society, chosen for their exceeding scholarship, leadership, character, and service actively participated in the school service throughout the year.

The Student Council provided for many fund-raising projects such as collecting money for the purchase of an emergency service for the Woodburn area. The student Council also sponsored many interesting assemblies and dances.

These groups maintained a high level of achievement, not only in the school, but also in the community as well.

"Spirit" leads the way

The Marantha Fellowship and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes had dual effects on their members — not only a fun aspect, but also a certain amount of spiritual growth became evident.

One member summed up the purpose in one simple statement: "Learning to know Christ through study and fellowship is the whole idea behind these clubs."

Kathie Wilder and Becky Miller enjoy friendship within the Marantha Fellowship.

Performance — essential

The areas of speech, drama, and music flourished with much recognition.

The speech team acquired more ribbons and awards than any other team in the school. Of the 11 regular members, six won more than four ribbons. The team maintained its success with much practice and hard work.

The teamwork was evident in N.I.S.B.O.V.A. when eight people went on to the state competition. The drama club enjoyed many speakers and continuous help with the musical and the planning of the drama banquet.

Strategies involve aircraft

The Chess Club sponsored by Al Waldron enabled students to understand and participate fully in the game of chess. Each member had the chance to apply skills and learning tactics throughout the year.

Rocket Club members encountered the chance to display talents at building aircraft. Mr. Dean Ray taught each member that rockets can be dangerous and safety is a "must."

Clubs produce graphics photographic products

Students in the Graphic Arts club experienced the opportunity to produce goods for themselves as well as for others. Students learned graphing patterns as well as working well with others.

Photography Club members gained knowledge and experience in the world of photography. Students learned to "focus in" and develop candids.

Clubs combine many interests

Social Studies Club and Card Club sponsored by Mr. John Briegal provided activities for interested students. Social Studies Club sponsored out-of-school events in addition to the popular "Initiation Day."

The Prom Committee, comprised of dedicated juniors, haggled and hassled over prom plans as early as September. They dealt with inflation which was reflected in spiraling costs of entertainment and food.

Languages and careers provide practical outlets

German and Spanish classes offered many students the opportunity of fluently speaking and writing these languages. Activities such as ski trips and European tours were offered to all members.

Medical Careers Club, a group of individuals seeking a career in the medical field, set goals and worked hard to achieve them.

Administrators maintain high standards

As the liaison between the schools and the community, Superintendent Daryl Yost and the school board strived to maintain high educational standards.

Energy conservation remained paramount as oil prices spiraled upward. Fuel inflation directly effected heating plants and bus schedules — temperatures remained cool and bus trips were curtailed.

Kept busy with everything from paper work to rowdy students, Principal Jerry Bush, Assistant Principal Keith Greathouse and Athletic Director Elmer Strautman kept the mechanisms of the school operating. From refusing to accept "far out" excuses for early morning lateness to encouraging student participation in school activities, maintaining the school's high standards motivated the administrator's behavior.

The offices were busy places each day. Assisted by Mrs. Sharon McConnell, Mrs. Nancy Ferdon and Mr. George Pond scheduled students into various learning programs as well as listening to their complaints and problems. Nevertheless, the candy jar sure was a help on those "sour" days.

The main office, frequently a congregating place for faculty and students, found Mrs. Lucy Fisher and Mrs. Marilyn Chaney running the school's daily "nitty gritty" activities.

New this year, Mrs. Lorraine Buuck joined Mrs. Alberta Schaper in the infirmary wing. Mrs. Schaper dealt with students' medical problems, and Mrs. Buuck maintained accurate attendance records.

Far in the recesses of the library, Mrs. Sharon Spieth and Mrs. Linda Seelig ordered AV materials and helped teachers with typing. As para-professionals they were essential and frequently a boon to "late planning teachers."

Maintenance people provide backbone

Cooks and janitors play an important role in the maintenance of the school.

We came to school at the beginning of the year to see nicely waxed floors and shiney desks. When we left at the end of a school day, the floors were cluttered with everything from broken pencils to paper airplanes. We arrived the next morning to see the school in excellant condition once again.

Midmorning aromas drifted from the cafeteria kitchen. When the lunch bell rang, mobs of students ran down the hall to the cafeteria to gobble their lunch. Increased prices didn't decrease students' appetites. The new salad bar made lunch even more exciting and offered an increased variety of "rabbit food" to choose from.

Henry Fritch yields the inevitable broom in an attempt to clean filth covered floors.

Alternative program aids special needs

Continuing the philosophy that education should be adapted for students' individual needs, the alternative classroom operated for the second year under the direction of Mary Anne Ashworth.

Working in cooperation with other teachers, Ms. Ashworth provided individual educational programs and assistance for students who had difficulty in the regular classroom.

Students with special needs met weekly with Sherri Rorick who provided a one to one learning situation.

English is alive and well

To "coin" the title of the play, "Jacques Brel is Alive and Well and Living in Paris" best describes the English program for the year. The biggest change occurred in the Senior English classes.

This year the seniors were busy studying Macbeth and Shakespeare as well as writing the famous Senior term paper. Students had quite a time trying to keep up with all of the homework and writing that Mrs. Jane Sullivan "dished out," but miraculously they all survived.

Juniors were busy "finding themselves" while studying "Who Am I" which is an identity unit. They began to put poems together and by writing they learned about the world around them.

New textbooks brought new areas of study to many of the social studies classes. From World History on the seventh grade level to U.S. Government on the senior level, students tried to comprehend and apply their new findings.

Mr. James Sherron found an enjoyable way for his students to increase their knowledge. He used games in class to review for tests, measure knowledge of the current happenings, and to review units once the students had been tested.

Science makes “living” easier

Woodlan's Science Department has always prided itself on turning out excellent Chemistry students.

Those students who do not study Chemistry with a career in mind, however, usually don't do as well as those students planning to go into a Chemistry related field. For this reason Living Chemistry was added to the curriculum to better provide for the “average” student.

On the Junior High Level, students were kept busy with their science projects assigned by Mr. Max Amstutz. Insect collections, leaf collections, and making models of the solar system provided the students with fun ways of increasing their knowledge of the world around them.

Searching for a substance contained in a known volume of a solution, Chem II classes conducted titration experiments. Rick Huber replaces used chemicals.

Mathematics — Using the science of equations

Mathematics — Using the science of equations to aid students in developing skills to better their abilities.

Seventh and eighth grade math involved studying the technique of basic mathematic skills. Applying these skills, students progressed to such courses as Algebra I and General Math. Geometry and Algebra II offered students more of a variety of indepth study.

Mr. Howard Baulkey lends a smile in 9th grade Algebra, indicating math can be fun.

Students assemble skills for the world of business

The business department's goals aimed at assembling students' skills. New machines such as IBM typewriters for all typing classes aided the increase of interest in the business departments. Perhaps this is the reason for the increasing number of males enrolling in business administrative courses. The Vocational Business course added that extra touch of training that most students need for maturing in the field of business. Working for teachers aided students in developing their practical skills for future employment.

POW WOW and ARROW staffs united to one big happy family as they struggled to meet deadlines, write copy, and design layouts. The 1979-1980 POW WOW staff consisted of 16 members with Clint Bockelman as editor. The 1979-1980 ARROW staff consisted of 13 members with Lynne Shattuck and Denise Derck presiding as editors. The ARROW staff had three deadlines to meet while the POW WOW tried to meet a bi-monthly production schedule.

The ARROW consisted of an 8x12 book cover, spot coloring, and a full color senior picture. However, due to these changes the price factor rose drastically.

"Due to rising costs of materials, all yearbooks of high schools throughout the area are relatively expensive," commented Mrs. Jane Sullivan — advisor.

L. Kasner, T. Davis, L. Shattuck, and D. Derck "bum out" after meeting a deadline.

Industrial Arts boom

Industrial Art classes offered a variety of challenges to students.

Students such as Joe Miller, Kirk Willinger and Rodney Strautman participating in woods classes conquered their obstacles by creating beautifully a crafted china cabinet, cedar chest and carvings respectively.

The Graphic Arts department reached their goals by obtaining new equipment. These acquisitions were invaluable to the productivity of the print shop and kept students busy learning how to properly operate the newly acquired machinery.

Drafting classes taught students the art of designing plans for a project and then constructing the project into reality.

Electricity charged students minds with the tasks of wiring circuits and hooking up light switches. These simple mechanics were essential to any beginning electrician.

Metals classes kept students busy molding jack stands, brass hammer heads and ashtrays. Foundry, welding, sheet metal work and learning how to work with porous metals also gave the students experience in basic metal working.

The FHA, one of the largest clubs in school, participated in many in-school and out of school activities which included such events as attending a state convention, producing an Easter egg hunt, and participating in field trips such as the kindergarten tours.

Bessie and Bossie, agriculture farm animals, graze the pasture before being judged at an annual F.F.A. contest.

Can you dig it?

Agriculture is more than farming and experience is the best teacher were two of the basic ideas on which the vocational agriculture program was founded. For those students with a rural background, vocational agriculture held a vast and varied panorama of occupational choices with the picture growing brighter every day.

With 40 percent of the work force in the U.S. involved directly or indirectly in agriculture, the Ag. department prepared people for work in the largest industry in the country. By providing actual "hands on experience" in areas as varied as corn and soybean production; to welding; to raising a forest for salable timber; to selling Homecoming corsages and building a greenhouse, Agriculture classes influenced the students in appreciation for occupations that expanded with each passing day, preparing them for progress in an industry that will always be basic to our nation and the world.

Activities for the German Club included a trip to the Barvarian town of Frankenruth, Michigan. Mr. Holt commented, "Everybody ate and bought too much." In January, the club journeyed to Swiss Valley Ski Resort even though there was little snow.

In the spring of 1980, 12 students accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Holt spent a two week trip in Germany, Austria, Switzerland, and Liechtenstein. The club also profited enough money by selling German Advent Calendars and Gummy Bears to treat themselves to a live German Band and a German smorgasbord at the Cafe Heidelberg in Huntington, Ind.

The Spanish classes also planned a trip over spring vacation. They traveled to Mexico City, Taxco, and Acapulco. At Christmas, they made Christmas cards to send to the hostages in Iran.

Change of pace; Change of face

The art classes completed a variety of exciting projects which included ceramics, weaving, pen and ink, and T-shirt designs which the 8th grade enjoyed doing. The students showed their talents by displaying their works in the lobby.

The music department discovered a new face this year. Mrs. Joan Phillips accepted the position of music director after the departure of Miss Marlene Everson. Mrs. Phillips brought many new varieties of music to the students.

The speech class wrote a letter to President Carter with a solution to the Iran situation. President Carter responded to the students' letter which was very exciting for the speech class and Mrs. Louise Jones, the new speech teacher. The speech class made the local news when the NEWS SENTINEL picked up on this story.

Students and fans received a pleasant surprise when they returned to school in the fall. The main gym — renamed “The Blue Pit” — received a face lift. Mr. Gay Martin, Mr. Bill Bollier, and Mr. Don Myers planned and executed artistic projects which included a Warrior painted in the middle of the floor and designs in an Indian motif painted on the walls.

Rats invaded Mr. Bollier's health class for nutrition experiments. One group of rats was addicted the four food groups and a daily dose of sugar. The second group dieted only on the four food groups. Those rats feasting on sugar didn't grow to be as healthy or as large as those rats that dieted.

The library is supplied with records, filmstrips, encyclopedias, atlas, and facts on file. It also keeps one up on the latest news in the newspapers and has the best books and magazines.

Seniors relish final year

Seniors look to future

Well, we've finally made it Seniors. After 12 years of being together, it's time for us to cherish the past and expand into the future. As we all go our separate ways after graduating, our names shall be remembered for years, and our class spirit will live on. Through the winter of 1976 to the tragic death of a special classmate in 1978, we united as a class and our solidarity increased. When we all grow lonely and old, we'll remember all of the special moments of our childhood. Go for it Seniors — this is your big chance!

Inflation hits Junior Class

The economy played a large part in the established tradition of juniors — the magazine sale and the junior-senior prom. High inflation kept magazine sales down; however, students realized that the situation mirrored most facets of the economy and had to find other ways to offset these negative economic factors.

All in all the class survived, and in so doing learned to respect the true meaning of the word inflation.

Freshman begin road to maturity

As we ended our freshman year, we recalled all of the crazy things that happened. Going from junior high to high school was like going from being a "kid" to being a young adult. As we grew older we had more responsibilities to face. We received a morning break which was one of the great privileges of being in high school. Teachers gave us more respect which we returned. Being able to pick out some of our own classes was also a great privilege. As freshmen, we felt more a part of the school, and we became more involved with the activities that went on. Going to pep sessions and attending the games was very exciting. The first homecoming week and celebration really made our freshman year an experience. Being a freshman was one more step down the road to graduating from high school.

JUNIOR HIGH

Junior High is busting out

Eighth grade aims for high school

Junior high was a time of preparation for high school. During the eighth grade, we looked with envy at the upperclassmen and all the "neat" things they were doing.

By the end of the year, we were looking forward to the many different activities in high school. On being polled what they were looking forward to, students gave the following responses.

"Getting a letter in wrestling and a terrific social life."

"Drill squad, dances, driving to school, gymnastics, senior Prom, the break and clubs."

"... drama class, typing classes, and different teachers."

"Going to games, graduation, taking a foreign language ... and being in Journalism."

"Meeting new people and getting a diploma."

Familiar questions occupy new students' minds

Where do I go? Who do I see? What hall? Who has the key to my locker? What? Combinations! That's crazy! Would someone please direct me to the music room? Thanks! How much time between classes? Quick! Where's the lavatory? Why do I have this funny feeling everyone is looking at me? Why me? Oops! My zipper is down. Jeepers! Beaver why didn't you tell me my zipper was down? I'm sorry, but I was too busy laughing. Ha Ha. These are just a few of the many phrases expressed by seventh graders during their first year at Woodlan.

Asked what they were looking forward to in their future years at Woodlan, seventh graders replied:

"Achieving goals, doing good in subjects and sports."

"Being a Senior."

"Playing football and basketball," Chad Lehman.

"Good education."

"I'm most looking forward to having a boyfriend," Nancy Koch.

"Lettering in football."

"Being a varsity cheerleader," Kyla Bearman.

"Getting out!" Anne Wietfeldt.

"Better girls!"

"Being able to drive a car to school instead of riding the stinking bus," Shane Mumma.

"Better grades."

"Playing in the band."

"More activities."

"Pep sessions."

"Boys and less work."

"German class."

"Going to the dances," Joni Smith.

"A lot of fun."

"Cleaner halls."

"High school sports, more freedom, breaks, choice of classes."

"Drill squad, getting good grades."

"The day I get out of school!"

ADVERTISING

In order to finance the many expenses faced when creating the ARROW, the yearbook staff sold advertisements to various patrons.

The staff takes pride in presenting those members of the community whose continuing patronage, necessary to the formation of this volume, is deeply appreciated.

It's only High School

Another brick Part I

Part II

"What Shall We Do Now?"

What shall we use to fill the empty spaces where waves of hunger roam

Shall we set out across this sea of faces

In search of more and more applause

Shall we buy a new guitar

Shall we drive a more powerful car

Shall we work straight through the night

Shall we get into fights

Leave the lights on

Drop bombs

Do tours of the past

Contract diseases

Bury bones

Break up homes

Send flowers by phone

Take a drink

Go to shrinks

Give up meat

Bravely sleep

Keep people as pets

Train dogs

Race rats

Fill the attic with cash

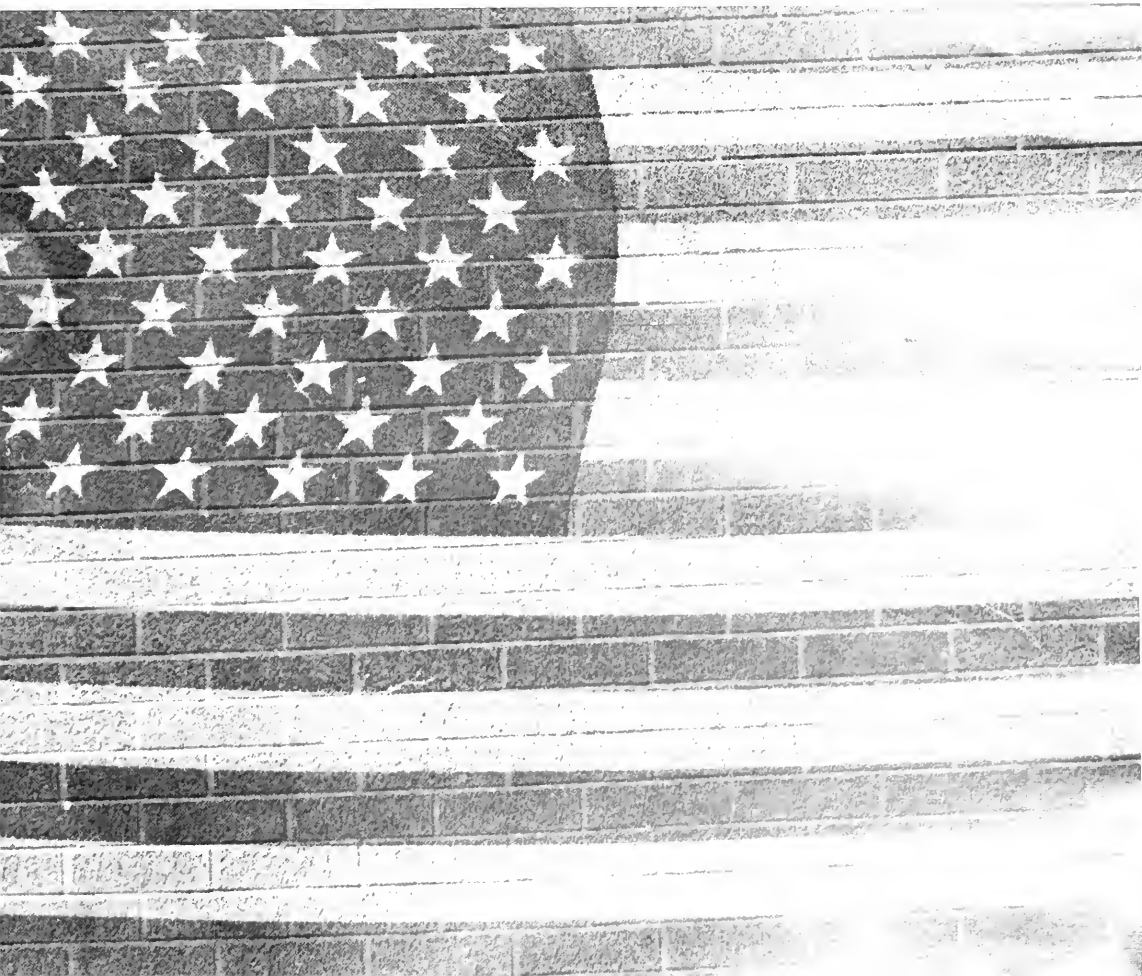

Bury treasures

Stone up leisure

But never relax at all

With your back against the wall

*From Pink Floyd's
"THE WALL"*

*Ships that pass in the night,
 And speak each other in passing,
 Only a signal shown,
 and a distant voice in the darkness.
 So on the ocean of life we pass
 and speak one another.
 Only a look and a voice,
 Then darkness again and a silence.
 — Henry Wadsworth Longfellow*

This is a yearbook staff??

In order to fill up this extraneous blank page, we, Lynne Shattuck and Denise Derck, extravagant nominclaturish, loving, etc., editors, would like to take a moment and get rather, shall we say, "personal," with our staff.

Brian Albrecht — you were a fantastic photographer, and we sincerely hope that Detroit rocks forever.

Tim Amstutz — you have our everlasting gratitude for the seashells and two weeks of awe-inspiring PEACE.

Brent Belote — there is an empty M&M box in the corner of the journalism room. We think it belongs to you.

Todd Davis — thanks for all the thrills, and we hope that someday you'll WANT to go to football practice.

Kim Delagrang — thanks for tolerating us; by the way, we don't know who the editors were either.

Denise Eicher — we enjoyed the humorous tales of adventure encountered at the nursing home — will you ever put your mom in one?

Sheryl Engle — we would like to leave you with this one thought; our numbers are in the white pages; Psychiatrists' are in the yellow pages.

Sharice Foss — thanks for showing up for at least two days in one week!

Lea Anne Kasner — Look! This book really did get done!

Brett O'Neill — thanks for voicing your opinions — emphatically, very emphatically. You did a FANTASTIC job on the book.

Mike Walchle — thank for reverberating enthusiasm throughout the year.

Kathie Wilder — thanks for joining us in the middle and still being able to maintain your own style of personality.

Now, to Mrs. Sullivan, advisor first class; thanks for keeping us as editors — you don't know what it meant! After all the trouble we caused, — knocking the lights out in the halls with a frisbee at St. Mary's College.

— getting caught in the "boys" dorm room (just playing cards!) by Big Art.

— T.P.ing your lovely bushes.

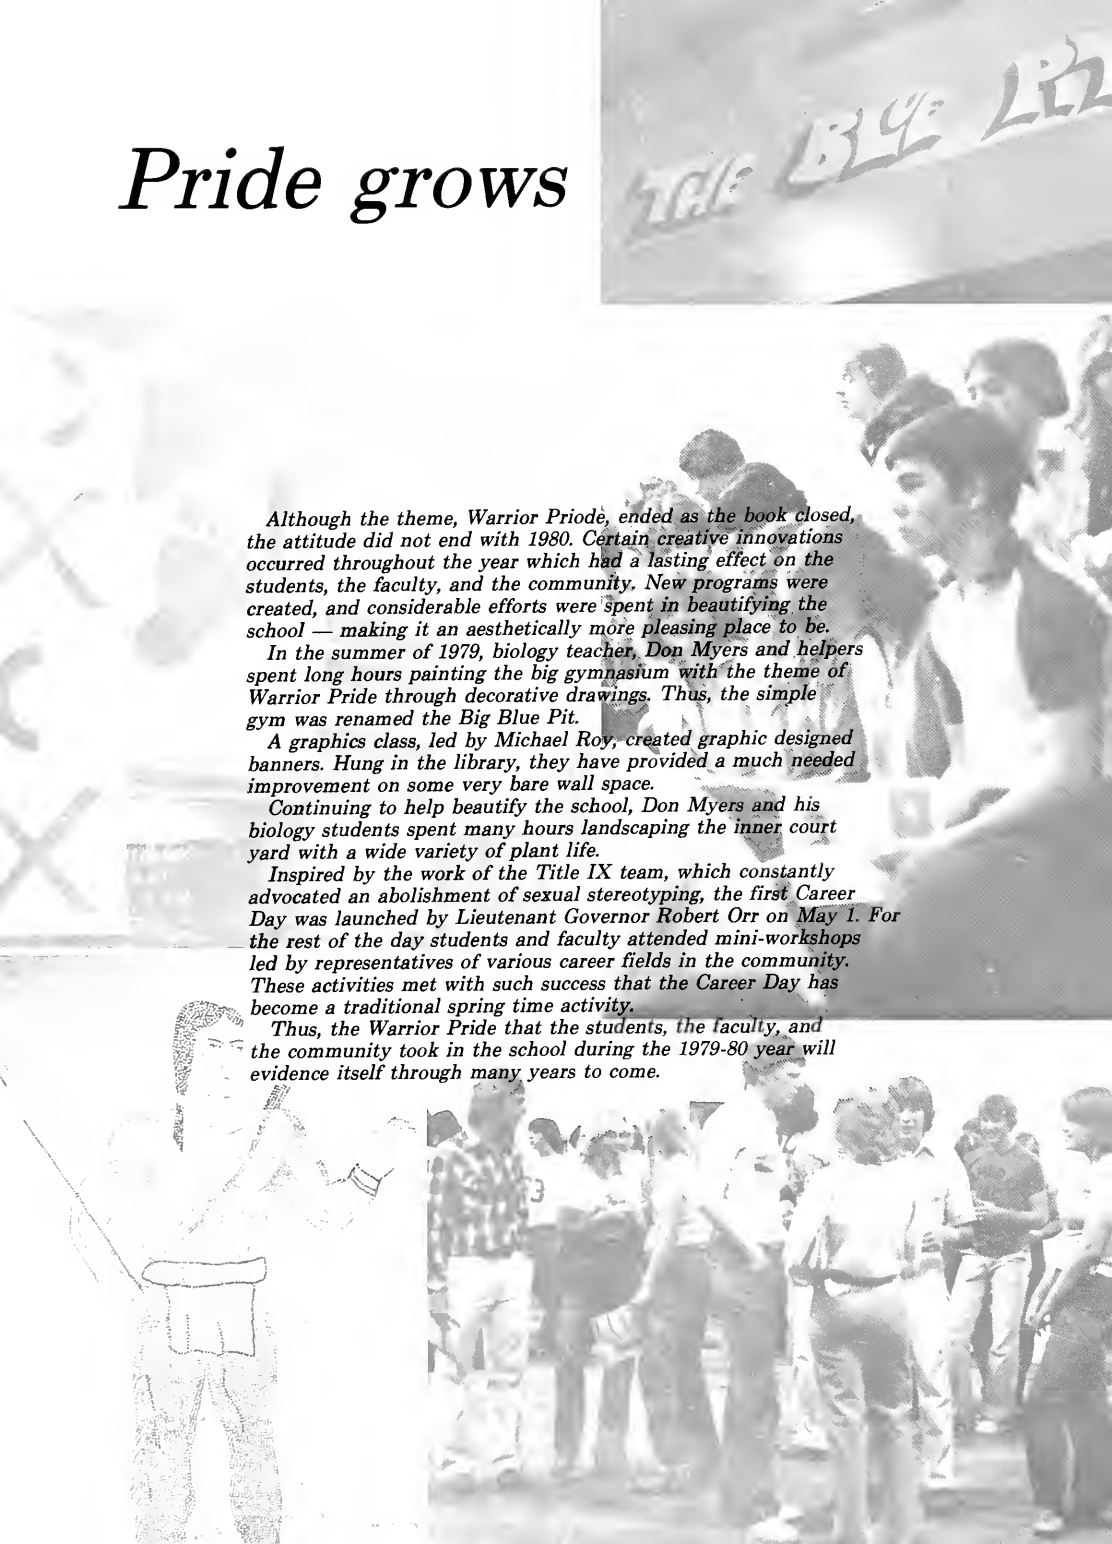

— sarcastic, however honest, remarks about everybody's personality flaws.

— and messing up an otherwise emaculate journalism room — almost everyday. su still accepted us, even though we obviously had no leadership abilities.

Just don't forget the hard work and dedication put forth to create the BEST yearbook you'll probably ever have.

Pride grows

Although the theme, Warrior Pride, ended as the book closed, the attitude did not end with 1980. Certain creative innovations occurred throughout the year which had a lasting effect on the students, the faculty, and the community. New programs were created, and considerable efforts were spent in beautifying the school — making it an aesthetically more pleasing place to be.

In the summer of 1979, biology teacher, Don Myers and helpers spent long hours painting the big gymnasium with the theme of Warrior Pride through decorative drawings. Thus, the simple gym was renamed the Big Blue Pit.

A graphics class, led by Michael Roy, created graphic designed banners. Hung in the library, they have provided a much needed improvement on some very bare wall space.

Continuing to help beautify the school, Don Myers and his biology students spent many hours landscaping the inner court yard with a wide variety of plant life.

Inspired by the work of the Title IX team, which constantly advocated an abolishment of sexual stereotyping, the first Career Day was launched by Lieutenant Governor Robert Orr on May 1. For the rest of the day students and faculty attended mini-workshops led by representatives of various career fields in the community. These activities met with such success that the Career Day has become a traditional spring time activity.

Thus, the Warrior Pride that the students, the faculty, and the community took in the school during the 1979-80 year will evidence itself through many years to come.
